"Little Theater"
Adopts Unusual
Scenic Effects

The next production of the Guignol season, "Francesco da Rimini," will inaugurate the use of a new type of set for the first time on the non-professional stage. This set is in the form of a huge book, with each scene enclosed as a page.

The opening scene is in the hall of the castle. The page is turned by the Jester, putting the second scene immediately in view, showing a picturesque garden, painted in an unusually splendid style. The artists have given this scene the correct perspective with its steady fountains, walks and shrubbery.

The costumes are a representation of a most picturesque period, which is the fourteenth century in Italy. Women of this era are attired in tight fitting gowns with flowing trains, and the men in tunics resembling the modern overcoat. All costumes are in brilliant colors, an exact characteristic of this period.

With an estimated attendance of 900 alumni, one of the most successful Homecoming celebrations in several years was observed last Saturday under the auspices of the University Alumni association with a series of events centering around the Kentucky-Alabama game which took a toll of 134 lives on September 8.

Events of the day began with the registration of alumni at both the Lafayette and Phoenix hotels. Blue and white ribbons were given to all alumni who registered. Mrs. Thomas R. Underwood and Miss Anne Kelly had charge of registration at the Lafayette and Jim Salyers and Betty H. Huelette were in charge at the Phoenix.

A feature of the morning was the decoration of sorority and fraternity houses in a contest sponsored annually by SuKy Circle for the most appropriately decorated house for Homecoming.

The Kentucky-Alabama game, the main event of the afternoon, was attended by approximately 13,000 people. Featured before the game and during the halves was the "Best Band in Dixie," who gave several special formations for the alumni. The Transylvania college band, guests of the University at the game, also paraded during the half. Just before the game a collection was taken up to complete payment for the new uniforms bought by the band this year.

Following the game, alumni, students, and friends of the University were guests of President and Mrs. Frank L. McVey for their annual tea at Maxwell Place. General open house was also held by all sororities and many old grads and friends dropped in during the two hours that they were held.

McBrayer Added
To Kitten Staff

According to an announcement made yesterday afternoon by the athletic department, Paul McBrayer of Lawrenceburg has been appointed freshman basketball coach at the University, to succeed Len Miller.

McBrayer is a former Kavanagh High school and University of Kentucky athlete. He coached basketball at Kavanagh for two years, after being graduated from the University.

When a student at Kentucky he was a member of the basketball team in 1928-29-30, playing under Coach Johnny Mauer. He played with the "sophomore wonder team" in 1928 which went to the semi-finals of the Southern tournament. He also made three letters in baseball, alternating as a pitcher and first baseman.

McBrayer succeeds Len Miller who is now athletic director at the Coal Grove, Ohio, High school. He will assume his duties in about two weeks when the first call for freshman candidates will be issued.

SPONSOR DRIVEGOAL OF CAMPAIGN IS SET AT
$1200 WHICH WILL BE USED
FOR FURTHERANCE OF ORGANIZATIONS' WORK

The Y.W.C.A. and the Y.M.C.A. groups of the campus will unite for a financial drive to get approximately $1200 from the faculty, for the support of the organization. The Y.M.C.A. will begin its financial campaign among the men students of the school tonight and will continue for a week.

Workers of the faculty drive will meet at 4 p. m. Tuesday for the instruction and plans of the campaign. This group is made up largely of members of the staff of the University and will call on members of the staff in an effort to raise the prescribed amount. The money raised by the joint drive of the two "Y" groups will be divided on a basis of two-thirds to the Y.M.C.A. and one-third to the Y.W.C.A., which is the representation of the men to the women enrolled in the school.

The student campaign will be conducted by the senior and freshman men, which will meet in the "Y" rooms at 7 o'clock tonight. It is planned to call upon every male student in the University, in the effort to raise the money.

The funds raised by the program are used to edit the "Y" book, pay salary of faculty and secretaries of the organizations, dorm meetings, College Night, help finance Pitkin club, and to bring outstanding speakers to the campus.

PLAYS OF IBSEN TO BE OFFERED

Mme. Hammer, Noted Actress, Will Appear in Three Performances at Training School Auditorium Nov. 8-9

Mme. Borgny Hammer, celebrated Norwegian actress, will appear in Lexington November 8 and 9 at the Training School auditorium, presenting three Henrik Ibsen plays.

Mme. Hammer, formerly of the National Theater of Christina, Norway, will be supported by an outstanding New York cast, including Courtney White, who is well known to theatergoers in that city.

The plays, "Ghosts," "The Master Builder," and "Hedda Gabler," will be presented Thursday evening, Friday afternoon, and Friday evening respectively, and will present this famous actress to Lexington audiences for the first time.

New York critics are agreed that Mme. Hammer is the ideal actress for the recreation of Ibsen's heroines. Her Norwegian temperament enables her to understand the author's thoughts to a great advantage, since Ibsen himself was a Norwegian.

Courtney White, who supports Mme. Borgny Hammer, has had much experience in the theater, having played the title role of "Dracula" for two years on Broadway and having appeared as Ned in "Strange Interlude" with the Theater Guild.

Other members of note who will support Mme. Hammer are Sidney Sloat, who lately played "Lorenzo" in the Maude Adams-Otis Skinner version of "The Merchant of Venice"; Mme. Borgny Noreen, who recently appeared with Walter Connolly in "Six Characters in Search of an Author," and who appeared with Mme. Hammer last season, and Eileen Lane, who has just returned from the Paris stage to appear with Mme. Hammer.

State Prizes—A Daniel Boone Memorial half-dollar, rimmed with gold and attached to a gold bar appropriately inscribed, to each of the four state prize winners: (a) Junior High essays; (b) Senior High essays; (c) University-College essays; (d) University-College orations.

Miss Anna Chandler Goff, under whose auspices the cast is appearing in Lexington, may be reached at the Lexington College of Music. The telephone number is Ashland 639. Arrangements for reservations for the three performances may be made with her.

FOR YOUR ENJOYMENT

Among the many appropriations given to the various departments by the administration, there appears one which is issued purely for your enjoyment. It is one of the most substantial funds donated for such a cause to be found in the long list confronting the authorities. They pass up many items needing more money to assure the students of quality in this type of amusement. It is the fund set aside at the beginning of the year for the Sunday afternoon musicals held in Memorial Hall.

During the winter months at 4 p. m. every Sunday, some well-known artist, or musical body which the committee-in-charge has been definitely assured will provide the type of program which will both entertain and enlighten the student audience, appears in concert. At present, the audience consists largely of townspeople while students, either through ignorance, or lack of desire to inform themselves on what is taking place, fail to attend the musicals.

If the student should glance over the list of artists appearing this season, he will find at least one or two performances which are sure to attract some portion of his interest. Many of the artists appearing on the concerts would demand a box office price of not less than three dollars.

The Sunday afternoon musicals are not lacking in entertainment quality in any respect. Occasionally a University musical group will appear on the list. When such is the instance, the student may be assured that it has some definite value and deserves a place alongside the performances of many of the prominent New York musicians appearing during the same season. Why not find out what the University really does offer you for the forty-seven dollars you pay the business office at the beginning of each semester?

SOLDIERS OF SYMPHONY

Who, among all of those 13,000 football fans at Saturday's game did not thrill at the martial splendor of Kentucky's brilliant band?

To director John Lewis, to Major B. E. Brewer, to loyal Wildcat supporters, to members of the band, themselves, we voice a true appreciation of the student body. Owing to the intensive campaigning of Major Brewer and the generosity of those in whom is found a genuine pride for our University, new uniforms that further enhance the magnificence of Kentucky's musical corps, have been purchased. Under the guidance of Mr. Lewis the band members have worked until a near-perfection has been achieved.

When those 80 soldiers of symphony marched down Stoll field, fairly radiating the sparkle of youth, with legs flashing in unison with exhilarating tones pouring forth from lustrous instruments with the precision of a crack military unit in their movements, whose real love of his down Tennessee way.

We all are indebted; we all realize how much time and patient practice have been necessary for the few minutes of glory at each game; we all are sincerely grateful.

ALABAMA'S SPORTS-MANSHIP

Through the channels of various publications the news has been broadcast that on the campus of a certain prominent Southern school, students are petitioning to drop Alabama off their schedule because in their last game they claim one or more Alabama players used unsportsmanlike tactics in defeating them.

After witnessing Saturday's game it hardly seems probable that Alabama could be guilty of such maneuvers. Of course football is a game in which injuries frequently occur but any obviously foul tactics are quickly apparent to the referees.

Statistics of the Kentucky-Alabama game show that there were four penalties totaling 23 yards, called during the game. This indicates that this game at least was cleanly played. Kentucky has always endeavored to maintain that reputation.

Kentucky has won only one game in its long series with the Crimson Tide. It seems that such a record would discourage any team; but not Kentucky. It merely adds an incentive to their play and Alabama has always taken this spirit in a friendly feeling of rivalry. Kentuckians would as soon give up the sport of football as to drop the constantly victorious Red Elephants from their schedule.

The former waiter at the Tri-Delt house returned for Homecoming and what a reception he did get at that lodge... what a way some people have with the women!

team from the Capstone has maintained a leading spot in the national limelight and they are truly a credit to the conference. Let us hope then that this last criticism is not coming from a very serious source and will not gain headway.

SCANDAL SNICKERINGS

By WALTER GIRDLER

Prof. Grehan says that "Slump Battle" Scotty Chahers is Bert Johnson's inspiration. . . . this seems to be pretty much the truth if one will note the look of contentment on the faces of these two when they are sitting together. We will have to make Prof. Grehan one of our shoppers from now on.

FLASH—Kappa Nell Crail is now free as far as any out-of-town romance is concerned, so you local lovers may have a chance from now on.

A letter from Mary Faber White, Chlo, who some weeks ago left school and returned to Pennslyvania, carries the information that she is not married as reported about school, but that her engagement is to be announced some time in the very near future.

Irvin Faber glanced at himself in the Tavern mirror Saturday afternoon . . . the shock was to great for him and he proceeded to pass out cold . . . poor boy, he at last caught on to himself.

FLASH—Rockie Stevens got caught in an embarrassing situation over the week-end when his last year's love, Ruth Hodges, came to town while Rockie was trying to do a little courting with Tri-Delt Kopp. . . . then too we must remember that real love of his down Tennessee way.

Two Pat Hall girls borrowed their date's car several nights ago and went for a little ride. . . . they turned on the radio and heard much to their surprise that their dates had reported the car stolen and that the police were looking for it. . . . the poor bewildered girls parked the car in front of the Tavern and took out for the Hall as if racing for life.

We understand that Lucy Guernant has a dog which she named after Irvin Faber . . . the name applied is that of "Squattin'." Irvin's nick-name. . . . the dog is a bull dog . . . much can be made of this, but we will let you draw your own conclusions.

Bill Humphries and "Old Lady" Drake seemed to forget the cold weather Saturday and went wading in the campus creek shortly after the game, and continued to wander about bare-footed—some fun, eh, boys!

Afghan Anna Jeanne Blackburn is still carrying on a very heavy correspondence with a mountain school teacher and former UK student named Charlie Buckhannan. . . . we may as well tell you local lads that your attempts at making time are rather useless.

FLASH—Latest news from New York gives us the information that former student Ed Moffett and Virginia Brown are putting on quite a courting act and both say that they have found what they are looking for.

John McKinney believes that the early bird gets the worm. . . . so we find him over at the home of Phyllis Caskey about 10 a. m. Sunday morning.

The four church goers, Endicott, Lloyd, Staples, and Reiger, are still at it. . . . are your actions during the week such that they merit your going to church on Sunday? . . . How about this Warfield?

The former waiter at the Tri-Delt house returned for Homecoming and what a reception he did get at that lodge... what a way some people have with the women!

Mary Thurber came back to town and Joe Schultz was again in his element. Yes, sir, Homecoming sure does bring together many many lovers.

FLASH—That Turnipseed can find more ways to get places than almost anyone on the campus. . . . Some intentional and a few unintentional. . . . Sunday night she fainted in the arms of Dick Bush. . . . Which type was this, Georgia?

Francis Roads, former Kappa, has taken over the duties of house mama in Cincinnati. Not bad after being out of school only two years, Francis.

Rissa Hieronymus stood up Cliff Collins the other night to have a date with her old love, Jack Cartington. . . . You just can't forget the past, can you Rissa?

I. J. Sunny Day, do hereby declare that Walter H. Girdler is a pantywaist on account of how he won't write in his lousy column that it makes Cameron Van Stavern Coffman very happy when slides are shown in darkened classrooms so he can play "hands" with Pauline "Polly" Craddock—said Girdler making said refusal because said Coffman knows entirely too much on aforementioned Girdler for that same Girdler to write such trivial matters about also aforementioned Coffman. Signed and attested for 13 notary publics this 5th day of November, 1934.

Irvin Faber glanced at himself in the Tavern mirror Saturday afternoon . . . the shock was to great for him and he proceeded to pass out cold . . . poor boy, he at last caught on to himself.

Oh well, we Independent students have decided that the life of a politician is not necessarily one that eventually leads to those pearly gates.

These cold November days have practically ruined this year's crop of flowers; however, at the dance Saturday night, a few varieties of the domesticated wall-flower were to be seen.

SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

By JAY LUCIAN

Saturday afternoon on Stoll field a great Alabama team, perhaps the greatest in the history of the Crimson Tide, met and defeated the Wildcats of Kentucky by what might be termed a top-heavy score. Many of the alumni were there hoping to see their down-trodden alma mater come through and upset the Tidesmen.

Strange as it may seem, however, there is no complaining. The students are backing Wynne and the team to an even greater extent. The alumni, without exception, went home happy with glowing praises for the Kentucky team, Wynne and Johnson's long run. What brought this about is team spirit. When that spirit flamed as it did during that second half, it spreads to the crowd and win, lose or draw the crowd is for the team and the school to the last one.

Every pep meeting brings out orators who harangue the students and blame them for lack of school spirit and say that without their loyalty they cannot expect to have a winning team. Editorialists are writing along the vein.

This line of reasoning is something in error. A fighting spirit does not come from the bleachers. They are not on the field playing the game. The will to win must start from the team. If they have the spirit to fight in the face of great handicaps, they will imbue their watchers and friends with that great spirit. They say that all the world loves a winner but there are just as many who cheer the underdog, if he fights.

Such was the case Saturday. When the fans saw an outclassed Kentucky team suddenly rouse up in the third quarter and go down the field with a power that not even the great Crimson Tide could stop. They went wild. It did not matter that that attack was only good for two touchdowns, and that physical handicaps were too great to bring about a victory. What counted was that that team was fighting to the last bit of its ability and the crowd appreciated it and so they went home happy.

That is what is creating school spirit. Examples are many and close at hand of teams that were beaten but fought so hard that in succeeding years a spirit arose that brought those teams out of the depths to a championship plane. The spirit started with the team and went from there to the student body which eventually brought them a winner. So be it with Kentucky. The spirit has arrived.

What Future Opponents Did

Saturday 0 Birm. S. 7
Tulane 15 Miss. U. 0
Tennessee 12 Fordham 13
Kentucky's two major opponents remaining on the schedule found the going a little rough last week and only one of them was able to survive the storm.

Although the Green Wave of Tulane was apparently the better team, it was hard pressed to demonstrate its superiority over a stubborn Missouri defense that consistently worried the Greenies.

It was not until late in the third period that Tulane was able to score after Bryan had run 50 yards to the 1-yard line and Simons took it over.

Joe Loftin raced 41 yards in the final quarter for the second touchdown.

Tennessee was handed its second defeat of the year when they were beaten 13-12 by Fordham in one of the principal games of the day. The Vols outplayed the New York Rams in every department and were leading until the final period.

Sarsausky, Ram halfback, opened the last can to a 61-yard dash for the second and Fordham score.

He had already converted the first extra point but missed his second try, but it proved unnecessary.

Southwestern, next Wildcat opponent, dropped a 7-0 decision to Birmingham-Southern.
